

Taking Care of Our Caregivers

Lisa Losanno, left, gives her mother Diane a kiss on the cheek as they stand in Diane's home in Lynn. As her mother gets older, Lisa has taken on the role of caregiver. (Spenser R. Hasak)

Being a caregiver is a rewarding job, but these days it can also be quite stressful. At Element Care, our team takes on and manages all communications, appointment setting, transportation to medical appointments and follow up tasks. This enables caregivers to continue to do what they do best – providing loving support and encouragement while being able to balance their work, family and other responsibilities.

Here's a story that appeared in the Daily Item about how Element Care reduced the burden on one of the caregivers for an Element Care PACE participant. If you know a caregiver of an older adult who could use some help, please share this with them or give us a call.
